Wayne R. Cohen is regularly heralded as one of the top personal-injury attorneys in the Washington metropolitan region. The Washingtonian has called Mr. Cohen one of Washington's "most feared personal-injury lawyers," one of the top 50 lawyers in the city, and one of "Washington's top trial lawyers." The Wall Street Journal described Mr. Cohen as "aggressive," a critical trait for a successful trial lawyer. Mr. Cohen is a past president of the Trial Lawyers Association of Metropolitan Washington, D.C., and is an associate professional lecturer of trial skills at the George Washington University Law School.

Mr. Cohen has been interviewed by the local and national media including the Today show, Good Morning America, Dateline, CNN, MSNBC, ABC, CBS, NBC, Fox, the Washington Post, the Wall Street Journal, the Chicago Tribune, USA Today, Newsday, the Examiner, the Washington Business Journal, Washington Post Radio, and 3WT Radio. In the early 1990s, Mr. Cohen and Kim Brooks-Rodney were adversaries on many cases. After they finished beating each other up in court one day, they joked that perhaps it might be fun to work together – who knew many years later they would be partners and the joke would become a successful reality.

Ms. Brooks-Rodney serves on the Board of Governors of the Trial Lawyers Association of Metropolitan Washington D.C. and is a former member of the Board of Directors of the Prince George's County Bar Association. Through her verdicts and settlements, Ms. Brooks-Rodney has obtained millions of dollars for her injured clients and has worked on a plethora of high profile cases. Most recently, Ms. Brooks-Rodney was retained to represent the families of victims killed in the June 2009 Metro crash in Washington, D.C. Prior to working on the side of the injured victim, Ms. Brooks-Rodney was a defense lawyer serving as the Managing Attorney of Hartford Insurance Company's Staff Counsel Office in Alexandria, Virginia.

Ms. Brooks-Rodney has been quoted by the Washington Post, the Associated Press, MSNBC, CNBC, the San Diego Union – Tribune, the Huffington Post, and the Examiner. She has appeared on NBC 4 News, Fox 5 News and Channel 9 News.

Cohen & Cohen, P.C. represents catastrophically injured victims of medical mistakes, product defects, and automobile accidents, in Maryland, Virginia, and Washington, DC.
